June 21st Chapter meeting

Topic: Case Study: Challenges and Risks Implementing SAP FICO at Tyson de Mexico

Presenter: Greg Reeves

Greg earned his B.S. in Computer Science from the University of Arkansas in 1993. He started his career as a programmer at a Distribution Services Limited, company that was an importer/exporter for Wal-Mart, located in South Gate, CA. From there he continued his career as a consultant with a company out of Rogers, AR called Sable Technology in 1995. He moved to Tyson Foods in 1996, where he has worked for the past 14 years. During these past years at Tyson Foods, he has been a senior programmer, lead analyst, and now serving as a project leader within their Project Management Office.

He has served as a NWA PMI volunteer mentor at the University of Arkansas mentoring senior students on project management this Spring (2010). He is developing a group within Tyson's IS department around project management (PMNet) which will serve as a place where they will present topics quarterly around project management to our small base of project managers and inspiring project leaders/managers.
